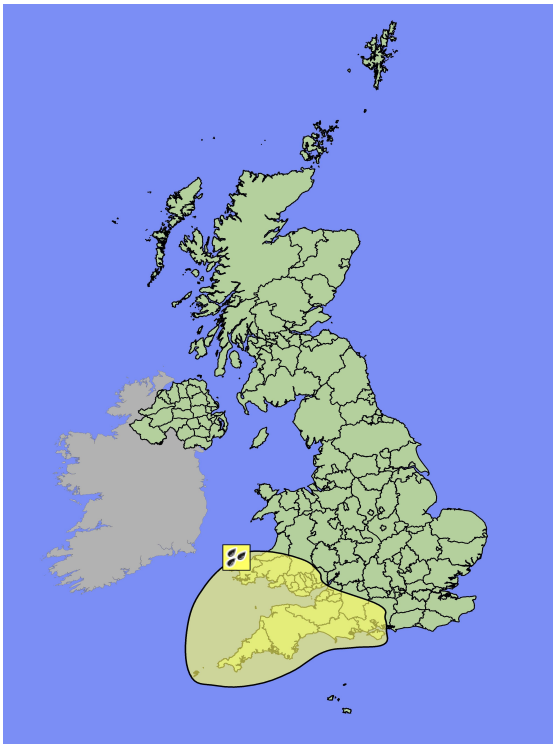
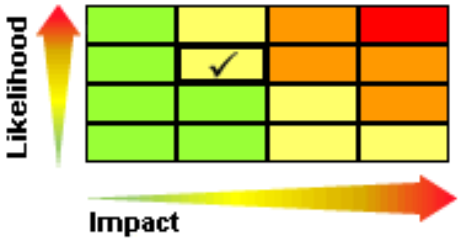
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active frontal system is expected to move northeastwards across the UK on Friday, bringing a spell of heavy rain to all regions. Wales and southwestern England are expected to be affected during the early hours and morning and here 15-20 mm is expected to fall quite widely. Over some upland areas, such as the moors of southwest England and mountains in Wales, in excess of 30 mm is likely.

Accompanying the rain will be strong winds and there is potential for the wind to gust over 45 mph quite widely, with a low risk of gusts over 60 mph over high ground and southern coastal areas.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Rain

Valid from 03:00 on Fri, 14th Dec 2012 until 12:00 on Fri, 14th Dec 2012

Heavy rain is expected to spread northeastwards across the UK during Friday. Wales and southwestern England will be affected during the early hours and morning. Here the public should be aware of the possibility of flooding and disruption to travel.
